SUCCESS CASE

 Hitachi Rail STS

For PH facility, Hitachi represents the evolution of the value of its model, which has evolved over twenty-five years within the same industrial plants.

The story began back in 1992, when the railway plants now owned by the Japanese company were owned by Stabilimenti Breda Costruzioni Ferroviarie. In 2002 they were acquired by Ansaldo Breda, and were most recently purchased in 2016 by Hitachi Rail. And throughout all the changes that these transfers of ownership have entailed, PH facility has remained the facility management service provider.

We have managed the environmental hygiene processes and the logistics and warehouse flows for the production processes, handled support activities in the final set-up stages of the railway products, organised the storage of spare parts abroad, patiently constructed performance specifications and requirements, modified management models, provided professional development for human resources, and optimised and modernised the plants and equipment.

Each new owner has appreciated the “PH facility style”, always imparting new challenges and new requirements, to which we have responded with the humility of a company that wants to be appreciated not just for its reputation, but for what it can actually do. And while we won't deny that those changes have involved some difficulties, our Customers, albeit under different names, have nevertheless rewarded our courage and professionalism.
